From the Abilene Chronicle] followed, as related to us by an eye-witness. It will be remembered that the dead culprit was boxed and buried by an undertaker, Mr. Eicholtz, a short distance from the town ceme-tery. On the night fellowing his burial, Mr. Johnson, a Texas cattle dealer, was returning from his herd. It was one of those beautiful moon-light nights for which this latitude is famous. In the bright moonlight he continued his journey far in the night. On approaching Abilene he noticed the suspicious movements of three persons, who were apparently digging in an isolated locality. Dismounting, he tied his horse, and approaching hid himself in a favored spot. He discovered the parties to be two well-known physicians of Abilians and a colored man. Presently two well-known physicians of Ablence and a colored man. Presently the spade of the negro struck a hard substance. "That's it," said one, and they shortly after had in full view a large box, whose cover was ripped off in less time than it takes to relate it. United States district attorney, and STRANGE SEQUEL TO A HANGING. AMONG THE BULLS AND BEARS. there was a bullet or ball hole in the W. H. Wickham.

From the New York Sun, March 16] We are about to relate one of the most astounding developments that has ever come to light in this western community, we may safely assert, within the recollection of any truthful person. The occurence, commencing with the killing of Kelley and the hanging of his murderer, with all its ghastly sequels, is not nearly equal to the dreadful scenes that subsequently followed, as related to us by an eyewitness. It will be remembered that the dead culprit was boxed and builed have a solution of the president's part of the control of the president's part of the control of the president's part of the control of the jury. In an instant a heavy stock broker raised the cry of "Tennessee." The alarm was taken up. It ran about the immense room like wildfire. The brokers rushed for Mr. Perkins like a drove of buffaloes. His glossy beaver was sent spinning to the ceiling, and the gold-headed cane went hurling through the air like an arrow. As the shining beaver descended it was caught on the toe of a prominent broker's boot, and sent whizzing over the president's deek. The president saluted it, and down it went to the other end of the room as though discharged from a catapult. Every broker gave it a vicious kick.
